Rhetorical Essay Example Debtors Prison

A debtor is dragged to prison, pitied for a moment, and then forgotten; another follows him, and is lost alike in the caverns of oblivion; but when the whole mass of calamity rises up at once, when twenty thousand reasonable beings are heard all groaning in unnecessary misery, not by the infirmity of nature, but the mistake or negligence of policy, who can forbear to pity and lament, to wonder ...

No. 38. Cruelty shown to debtors in prison. - Samuel Johnson
Johnson is at his most subjective, however, in asking why the concept of debtors' prison even exists in a society as highly mature as Britain's. Johnson's passionate pathos is revealed in the ninth paragraph: his nationalism evokes a sincere questioning as to how Englishmen, the most advanced people on the planet, could allow "[150,000] perish in our gaols [jails]."
