Key Point #1: The foundation of proper nutrition for building muscle after 50 is that you need to consume more quality calories than you burn each day to promote growth. That said, your eating plan needs to be controlled enough that you don't overload on the wrong calories (or too many calories) and end up getting fat & flabby instead of muscular & defined.

Building Muscle After 50 — The Definitive Guide For Men

Physique After 50 argues that physique training doesn't have to end the moment you turn fifty. Aging is an important part of life, and this is the prime of your life. At the same time, as you age there are real physical and hormonal changes going on in your body. Being fifty is not the same as forty, so of course your exercise needs to account for this.
